North Park

It's been a drinking and dining destination for years, but there's always something new popping up in this hip corner of San Diego

NEW ORIGINAL 40 BREWING COMPANY

The owners of U-31 gave us another stop on our North Park brewery hop when they opened this beautifully decorated space in June. Settle into the comfy seating with one of the 14 house beers on tap and some atypical pub eats—baby back adobo ribs, gougères, and Castelvetroano olives. Cheers!

VERBATIM BOOKS

Attention, bibliophiles: This rare and used book store tripled its square footage this spring, erecting even more shelves of hardcovers and paperbacks to browse. (Note the artistic display of books stacked to spell their name.) They also regularly host readings and open mic nights.

NEW NORTH PARK BREAKFAST CO.

S'mores waffles, brioche donuts, and chicken confit and grits are some of the dishes that'll get you out of bed to this new morning spot. It's a spin-off of the ever-expanding Breakfast Republic chain.

NEW MAX AND DEMETRI'S PIZZA

Craving a late-night slice? This joint slings pies till midnight, with a menu of fun names like the Good Morning Vietnam (braised pork, cabbage, Sriracha, and pickled onions). Order a combo to get two slices and a beer for $12.

NEW THE BURRITO STATION URBAN KITCHEN

This walk-up window has the standard Cali and surf-and-turf burritos, along with heartier options like breakfast burritos stuffed with chipotle chilaquiles and refried beans.

PARAS NEWS STAND

This store has been a fixture on 30th Street for decades, as the place in San Diego to read all about it—they carry over 4,000 titles. If you want fashion magazines in multiple languages or hard-to-find glossies, they've got 'em. Print isn't dead!

COMING SOON NORTH PARK MINI PARK

Construction will soon begin transforming the empty lot behind the Observatory into a space with pergolas, public seating, and art displays. Expected to open in 2020.
